

JOURNAL OF MANAGEMENT STUDIES

Journal of Management Studies A Publishing Workshop

Hosted by Yokohama National University

Workshop dates: 25-26 May 2024

Application deadline: 16 February 2024

The Journal of Management Studies and Yokohama National University invite you to attend their Publishing Workshop in Yokohama, a short distance from Tokyo. The workshop will feature JMS editors and a set of highly distinguished scholars from/based in Japan, and it will be led by JMS Associate Editor Johann Fortwengel (King's College London).

Day 1 (25 May 2024): We will focus on professional development with an emphasis on strategies for successful publishing. It will feature presentations by experienced editors, as well as focused discussions on key topics related to publishing such as:

- How to craft a theoretical contribution
- Writing for scholarly and societal impact
- Understanding and navigating the review process

Day 2 (26 May 2024): We invite participants to present their papers and engage in a Q&A and feedback session. Feedback will be provided by experienced JMS editors and eminent scholars from/based in Japan, with the aim to help authors prepare their paper for subsequent submission to a leading journal. For this part of the workshop, Katsuki Aoki (Meiji), Jesper Edman (Waseda), Kyoko Fukukawa (Hitotsubashi), Yutaka Yamauchi (Kyoto), Christina Ahmadjian (Hitotsubashi) and Yoshio Yanadori (Waseda) will volunteer their time to provide feedback, alongside JMS editors. To participate on Day 2, please ensure you have a 500-word summary of your presentation paper prepared in English. Complete the designated section in the registration form with the details of your summary.
